

I have a database of celebrities that contain their first name, last name, birth date, net worth and if they are your favorite. There is a recycler view that displays all the celebrities in the database. There are edit texts that are used to either display the details on selected celebrities and used to add/ update celebrities. There is a button for adding/updating celebrities, removing celebrities, seeing only your favorite celebrities and a button for seeing all celebrities. I am using a content provider to pass the list of all celebrities into the recycler view.
